Description:

Under CAEATFA's authorizing statute, the authority's purpose is to provide industry in California with different methods of financing alternative energy and advanced transportation technologies. The statute defines advanced transportation as: "emerging commercially competitive transportation-related technologies identified by the authority as capable of creating long-term, high value-added jobs for Californians while enhancing the state's commitment to energy conservation, pollution reduction, and transportation efficiency." The CAEATFA Board has directed authority staff to explore proposals for providing sales and use tax exemptions for the purchase of ZEV manufacturing equipment. The goal of this new ZEV program is to create a strong new ZEV industry within California that reduces green house gas emissions and creates new long-term high value-added jobs.

This exemption is created through a purchase and sales back approach where: CAEATFA purchases specified equipment (tangible personal property, not real property) on behalf of a company. CAEATFA finances this purchase through a bond or loan. The Company then purchases the equipment from CAEATFA. By statute, CAEATFA does not have to pay sales tax on the equipment it purchases, nor collect tax on the equipment it then sells to the company. The Board of Equalization ("BOE") oversees state sales and use tax issues and would be consulted in the process.

Many businesses operating in California must comply with environmental requirements that protect public health and air quality. The ARB provides small business - especially start-up companies - with information and assistance on all facets of air pollution control and permit requirements. But dealing with government standards, permits and procedures can be a challenge. As the state government agency responsible for air quality in California, the Air Resources Board (ARB) has programs specifically designed to help small business people navigate the regulation process. Our mission is twofold: to ensure healthy, clean air for California and to make doing business in our state as simple and painless as possible.
